The Faculty

"It takes two to speak Truth," said Thoreau. "One to speak it and another to hear it." But of these two, the speaker and teacher of Truth is by far the more important. To the Faculty of a Law School is given this duty: to the students, the duty of listening.

To the Faculty of New Jersey Law School we owe a debt that we can never wholly repay. We have "kindled our lamps from their flames." For the gifts of Learning, Understanding and Appreciation which they have given us, we extend to them the genuine and sincere gratitude that comes from thankful hearts.

We Say Farewell

EAGERLY we have anticipated that which we are about to realize—commencement! We wonder why, now that we face this beginning of all things, we are timorous. Not of those obstacles which will surely beset our way, not of the knocks which we are sure to take—for those are inevitable—but afraid that we can never be of sufficient credit to you, our teachers. Our acts will reflect your pedagogy. You knew—and applied your knowledge that we might learn. We have learned—or have we? This will be determined throughout our walk of life. You have paved the way. Now we owe it to you to plod surely and steadily up to the heights where in a halo of glory your teachings will shine in a pure light, unimpaired by the shadow of misunderstanding or ignorance.

We do not ask for luck—for he alone is lucky who enjoys a clarity of vision; the ability to see opportunity and grasp it. We must strive if we hope to succeed. As a poet has so aptly said:

We live in deeds, not in years; in thoughts not breaths.
In feelings, not in figures on a dial.
We should count time by heart throbs. He most lives
Who thinks most, feels the noblest, acts the best.
