Assistant Dean

ASSISTANT DEAN HECKEL

A staunch advocate of Due Process, the hearty breakfast, and a twelve-hour work day for law students, Dean Heckel is one of the most popular members of the faculty at Rutgers Law School. As a teacher we respect him for the clear, and thoughtful presentation of his courses, and his unique ability to explain and simplify seemingly difficult principles of law. As Acting Dean for one year and Assistant Dean at present, his deep concern for efficient and just administration on behalf of our law school is well known. The class of 1952 is proud to have been able to pursue the study of law in such close association with its friend and dean, C. Willard Heckel.

Administrative Staff

Justice is no better than the courts that administer it, and the smooth course of a school's administration is equally unlikely without an efficient staff. Rutgers Law School is most fortunate to be served by Dorothy List and her able assistants, Audrey Richter and Kathleen Cowell. Whether it be in regards to registration problems, examination grades, or the whereabouts of Dean Heckel, Miss List never fails to come up with the proper answer or a sympathetic shoulder to cry upon. Both the bewildered freshmen and the troubled senior can count upon her advice for all occasions: and even members of the faculty are known to consult with her on important matters outside the scope of the casebook. Together with Audrey and Kathleen, Miss List has been a major factor in maintaining sanity throughout these turbulent years of our Law School careers.
