INSTITUTE FOR CONTINUING LEGAL EDUCATION

Jointly sponsored by the University, the New Jersey Institute for Practicing Lawyers and the New Jersey State Bar Association, the Institute for Continuing Legal Education has strengthened its programs designed to keep New Jersey practitioners abreast of recent developments in the law. During last year, the programs reached over 4,000 lawyers in fourteen additional locations. The Director, Eli Jarrel, in cooperation with NBC Television, planned and filmed a ten-part series entitled "You and the Law." Each one-half hour session presented a problem of general interest to the public ranging from consumer problems to the stop and frisk law. Shown in New Jersey in the early morning in November, the programs were then televised in the District of Columbia, Los Angeles, Cleveland and Chicago, returning to New Jersey for re-broadcasting during March.
