of the school, a one year's attendance at a recognized college was made a pre-requisite to entrance to the Law School as a candidate for the L.L.B. degree. To enable local students to surmount the handicap of the local lack of collegiate institutions, a one year pre-legal course was established in 1927.

In 1928, the entrance pre-requisite was advanced to two years of college work, and the pre-legal course was raised to two years.

Realizing the need of still larger quarters, the school in 1927 purchased the Ballantine Building at 40 Rector Street, and after altering a part, made it the seat of the pre-legal school in 1928. In 1929, the affiliated school, Seth Boyden School of Business Administration, was chartered and given the degree-granting privilege. This school, offering a four-year course, was also situated in the huge Ballantine Building. In 1930, the pre-legal school became Dana College, offering a four-year course leading to the A.B. degree.

Meanwhile, extensive alterations were made in the Rector Street building, and the entire huge structure converted into large class rooms, lecture rooms, reading rooms, and a two-story library capable of seating 500 students and of accommodating the collection of books which has now grown to over 10,000 volumes. On June 15, 1930, New Jersey Law School moved to its new quarters in this building, and here it may remain, a tribute to the genius and foresight of its founders.

And so our Alma Mater continues to grow and prosper; never sacrificing efficient instruction to a desire for mere size; never placing material considerations before the welfare of her students, who wish to assure her that they have always fully appreciated her attitude toward them, and shall ever entertain feelings of the warmest nature for New Jersey Law School.

ALUMNI
New Jersey Law School
Alumni Association

The Alumni Association held its third annual meeting and banquet in June, 1930, in the library of the new Law School. At this meeting the candidates were tapped for Seal and Scroll and the following officers of the Alumni Association were elected:

A. Harry Moore '24
President

William J. Eglin '28
H. Theodore Sorg '12
First Vice-President
Second Vice-President

Ira C. Moore '13
Leonard J. Emminger '26
Treasurer
Secretary

Adrien B. Hommel '27
Executive Secretary

Executive Committee

Franklin J. Marryott '28, Chairman
Homer C. Zink '10
Samuel S. Tarnoffsky '18
Walter D. Van Riper '15
George Mcclellan '28
Paul J. Duffey '25
Gabriel Lightman '26
Edward F. Craig '27

Ex-officio:

David Young III, President of Seal and Scroll
Clarence J. Fasbender, President Student Council
Samuel Rosenblatt, President Kings Bench

Who's Who?

By Arthur E. Schmauder '29

As one glances on the vast sea of faces belonging to law graduates he finds many friends who are at present paving their way in the legal profession and ever striving to reach that last rung of success and happiness. These few pages of "Who's Who?" are taken from the scrap book of an onlooker. A glance at this ever growing list of "grade" shows the potential strength of the new Alumni Association which has successfully completed the pitfalls of youth and is well on the avenue to ripe maturity.

CLASS OF 1909

The first graduating class of the New Jersey Law School numbers among its Alumni the following: Albert F. Bender, a member of the firm of Gilhooley and Bender, located in the Albender Building, Elizabeth, N. J.; Alfred Bremner, member of the firm of Bremner and Kruesch, Times Building, Bayonne, N. J., who was honor man of his class, city attorney of Bayonne from 1916 to 1920, and appointed judge of Bayonne District Court in 1921; Morris Gordon, with offices in the Military Park Building, Newark; Charles Joseph Stamler, member of the firm of Stamler and Koster, located at 29 Broad Street, Elizabeth, N. J.; Harry J. Weiner, counsel for the Board of Education of the City of Linden.

CLASS OF 1910

E. Morgan Barradale, attorney for New Jersey Interstate Bridge and Tunnel Company and assistant to the chief engineer building the Holland Tunnel; Lewis R. Freund, judge of the Second District Court of Newark; George Forrest, associated with the firm of Forrest and Forrest, having offices in the Military Park Building, Newark; Theodore G. Hindenlang, with offices in the Leftcourt Building, Newark; John A. Matthews, member of the faculty of Mercer Beasley Law School and former member of the New Jersey Legislature; John F. Murray, Jr., member of the City Commission, City of Newark; Laura Mayo Wilson, associated with the firm of Edmund M. and Reuzyn Collie, with offices in the President Building, City of Newark; Homer C. Zink, member of the executive committee of the New Jersey Law School Alumni Association and a member of the State Legislature.

CLASS OF 1911

Clarence H. Alexander, associated with the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, Newark; Elizabeth Blume, with offices at 19th Market Street, Newark; Michael F. Judge, judge of the East Orange District Court, from 1920 to 1925; Paul Ladday, with offices in the Union Building, Newark; Frederic C. Rigler, of the firm of Pilgrim and Rigler, with offices at 43 Lincoln Park, Newark, and a member of the executive committee of the Stenton Institute; Winfield T. Scott, of the firm of Scott and Scott, of Passaic, N. J.; Homer D. Smith, whose office is at 810 Broad Street, Newark; Clyde D. Souther, member of the firm of Huskey and Souther, Reno, Nevada; Harry Unger, with offices in the Gwydwy Building, 207 Market Street, Newark; Andrew J. Whinery, surrogate for Essex County; William F. Zimmernann, chief engineer and manager of Gould and Eberhardt, Irvington, N. J.
CLASS OF 1912
Eugene Edward Burr, member of the firm of Henn and Burr, Jersey City, N.J.; Orlando H. Day, of Railway, N.J.; Howard S. Dodd, register of deeds, Essex County; William L. Roe, Jr., member of the firm of Clark and L. Roe, Washington D.C.; Elisha R. Noble, clerk of the First Criminal Court, Newark; Frank J. Reardon, assistant corporation counsel, Jersey City; Henry Schottenhalf, with offices at 1020 Broad Street, Newark; H. Theodore Sorg, professor of real property at New Jersey Law School, vice-president of the New Jersey Law School Alumni Association, and member of the firm of Sorg, Dunham and Bailey, National Newark and Essex Bank Building, Newark; John Trier, co-author of the New Jersey Chancery Practice and Precedents, and associated with the surrogate's office, Essex County.

CLASS OF 1913
John J. McCluskey, member of the firm of Levy, Fenster and McCluskey, with offices at 450 Broad Street, Newark; Ira C. Moore, Jr., treasurer of the New Jersey Law School Alumni Association and member of the firm of Whiting and Moore, Essex Building, Newark; Frederic R. Pilch, with offices at 24 Commerce Street, Newark.

CLASS OF 1914
Edward Dillon, judge of the Monmouth District Court and the only alumnus to graduate in this class.

CLASS OF 1915
Peter P. Adubato, with offices in the Military Park Building, Newark; John A. Amerman, assistant solicitor for the Prudential Insurance Company, Newark; Arthur J. Connelly, clerk of the Third Criminal Court, Newark; Pearce R. Franklin, with offices at 810 Broad Street, Newark; Robert G. Groshman, member of the firm of Groshman and Groshman, with offices in the Industrial Office Building, Newark; Fred Herzog, Jr., member of the executive committee of the Steuben Institute and a member of the firm of Herzog, Lindley and Herzog, with offices at 1060 Broad Street, Newark; Furney Jeffreys, associated with the firm of Whiting and Moore, Newark; Jacob Karkus, of Keyport, N.J.; Nathaniel Kessler, member of the firm of Kessler and Kessler, Union Building, Newark; Louis Levy, member of the firm of Levy, Fenster and McCluskey, located at 45 Bradford Place, Newark; John W. McGeehan, Jr., an honor man in his class and well known Newark trial lawyer, with offices in the Knickerbocker Building, Newark; Walter D. Van Ripper, judge of the Essex County Court of Common Pleas; Lester Edwin Wurzel, second vice-president of the Prudential Insurance Company, Newark.

CLASS OF 1916
Lloyd G. Beatty, judge of the Municipal Court of Glen Ridge, N.J.; Ernest P. Bro, with offices at 780 Broad Street, Newark; William P. Braun, attorney for the U.S. Fidelity and Guaranty Company, Newark; John W. Palmer, member of the firm of Palmer and Cooper, with offices in the Knickerbocker Building, Newark; Edward A. Schilling, member of the firm of E. A. and W. A. Schilling, with offices at 700 Broad Street, Newark; Harold Simandl, judge of the First Criminal Court of Newark; Frederic V. Stoddard, police magistrate of Irvington, N.J.

CLASS OF 1917
Selin A. Gallier, former instructor of sales at New Jersey Law School, and honor man of his class, is assistant solicitor of the Prudential Insurance Company, of Newark; John C. Howe, judge of the Second Criminal Court of Newark; William P. Nies, with law offices at 9 Clinton Street, Newark; Paul R. Silberman, a member of the firm of Silberman and Silberman, with offices in the Industrial Office Building, Newark.

CLASS OF 1918
Joseph C. Batelew, a member of the firm of Batelew and Tupper, with offices at 1060 Broad Street, Newark; Charles A. Herr, with offices at 17 Academy Street, Newark; Michael Silver, with offices at 24 Bradford Place, Newark.

CLASS OF 1919
James I. Bowes, judge of the District Court of Somerset County; Russell Fleming, a member of the firm of Fleming and Handford, with offices in the Kinney Building, Newark; Aaron Laser, associated with the firm of Stein, McGivney and Hannock, with offices at 17 Academy Street, Newark; William A. Schilling, a member of the firm of E. A. and W. A. Schilling, with offices at 763 Broad Street, Newark.

CLASS OF 1920
Lewis J. Auerbach, Jr., member of the executive committee of the Steuben Institute, and former member of the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission, with offices at 60 Park Place, Newark; Thomas E. FitzSimmons, associated with the firm of Riker and Riker, with offices in the Federal Trust Building, Newark; Charles M. Groshman, a member of the firm of Groshman and Groshman, with offices in the Industrial Office Building, Newark; Harry W. Linderman, active in the municipal affairs of East Orange, N.J.; James Leo McKenna, assistant prosecutor for Essex County, N.J.; Aaron Wallace Welch, editor of the "Commercial Law Review.

CLASS OF 1921
John B. Brown, corporation counsel for Belleville, N.J., and associated with the firm of Reed and Reynolds, with offices in the National State Bank Building, Newark; Percy H. Penn, with offices at 1060 Broad Street, Newark; Samuel Siff, member of the firm of Siff and Siff, 60 Park Place, Newark.

CLASS OF 1922
Michael G. Menick, with offices at 24 Bradford Place, Newark; Edward F. Beers, with offices in the Prudential Building, Newark; Walter A. Beers, with offices at 11 Hill Street, Newark; John James Clancy, associated with Merritt Lane, with offices in the Prudential Building, Newark; George S. Harris, Dean of the New Jersey Law School; Elias W. Karkus, of Keyport, N.J.; Jerome B. McKenna, member of the firm of McKenna and McKenna, 17 Academy Street, Newark; J. Thaddeus Reapond, with offices at 763 Broad Street, Newark; John P. Wiegand, with offices at 60 Park Place, Newark.
CLASS OF 1923
Mary C. Durr, associated with the firm of Martin and Reilly, 763 Broad Street, Newark; Francis Gash, with offices at 763 Broad Street, Newark; M. Francis Kestig, with offices in the Lefort Building, Newark; James F. X. O'Brien, with offices in the Lefort Building, Newark; Henry J. Sorenson, attorney for the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey; Jules E. Tepper, member of the firm of Beel and Tepper, with offices at 1060 Broad Street, Newark; Charles C. Teelra, member of the firm of Burnett, Murray and Teelra.

CLASS OF 1924
Charles W. Chadwick, with offices at 763 Broad Street, Newark; Joseph F. S. Fitzpatrick, former Secretary of the State of New Jersey; Douglas M. Hicks, former assistant U. S. district attorney, attorney for Middlesex County; Thomas Ingam, assistant solicitor of the Prudential Insurance Company of America; Joseph S. Lindabury, Jr., member of the firm of Herrigel, Lindabury and Herrigel, with offices at 1060 Broad Street, Newark; Lester L. Mahr, member of the firm of Peer and Mahr, with offices at 77 Academy Street, Newark; A. Harry Moore, former Governor of the State of New Jersey; Walter F. O'Brien, city editor of the Passaic Daily News; Saul Tuchler, associated with the firm of Levy, Fenster and McCloskey, 45 Brantford Place, Newark.

CLASS OF 1925
Harold W. Boedem, associated with the firm of Whittome and McClean, with offices at 286 North Broad Street, Elizabeth, N. J.; Paul J. Duffy, member of the executive committee of the New Jersey Law School Alumni Association; Kenneth Edgar Eckrode, with offices at 41 Paterson Street, New Brunswick, N. J.; Dr. Meyer C. Ellenstein, recent candidate for City Commission of the City of Newark; Gerald T. Foley, associated with the firm of Colt, Starte and Tomlinson, with offices at 60 Park Place, Newark; Irving Y. Gidley, with offices at 50 Broad Street, Elizabeth, N. J.; John A. Grammer, associated with John A. Bernhard in the Prudential Building, Newark; Richard F. Harris, clerk of the Traffic Court of the City of Newark; Seland Whitney Landon, instructor in law at New Jersey Law School; Frederic C. Von Hof, associated with John A. Bernhard in the Prudential Building, Newark.

CLASS OF 1926
Alphonso Augustus Cotter, member of the firm of Carr and Cotter, with offices at 483 Clinton Avenue, Newark; Leonard J. Emminger, secretary of the New Jersey Law School Alumni Association, with offices at 763 Broad Street, Newark; John F. Mylod, supervisor, Prudential Insurance Company of America, Newark; William L. Viner, with offices at 9 Clinton Street, Newark; Frederic C. Waldron, associated with Song, Duncan and Bailey, with offices in the National Newark and Essex Bank Building, Newark.

CLASS OF 1927
Henry F. Keiler is practicing law in Linden, N. J.; Reginald Parnell, former secretary to the mayor of Newark and member of the faculty of New Jersey Law School is a member of the firm of Parnell and Gordan, with offices at 20 Clinton Street, Newark: Raymond Schroder, president of his class and former member of the executive committee of the New Jersey Law School Alumni Association, is practicing law with offices in the Lefort Building, Newark; Paul R. Cramer, with offices at 86 Main Street, Manasquan, N. J.; Adrien Bernhardt Hommel, executive secretary of the New Jersey Law School Alumni Association, alumni editor of the 1928 and 1929 Legacy, has been practicing in Sussex, N. J.; Hamilton Emekin MacArthur is associated with a prominent western corporation; James J. Higgins is an attorney for the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey; Karen Yannell Kuhns is a member of the firm of Hicks and Kuhns, with offices in the Citizens National Bank Building, New Brunswick, N. J.; Morgan R. Sniffen is associated with the firm of Edward M. and Ranuy Colle, with offices at 763 Broad Street, Newark; Fred Eron Shepherd, with offices at 286 North Broad Street, Elizabeth, N. J.; August C. Uritich, with offices at 1450 North Broad Street, Hillside, N. J.

CLASS OF 1928
Vincent C. Duffy is assistant prosecutor for Passaic County, N. J.; Louis Frederick Botjer, with offices in West Englewood, N. J.; Harold J. Brady is attorney in charge of taxes for the Prudential Insurance Company, of Newark; Robert Dietz is associated with the Better Business Bureau of New York; William J. Egan, former chairman of the Student Council is Director of Public Affairs for Newark; Jerome Goldstein is associated with the firm of Bider and Bider, with offices in the Military Park Building, Newark; Anthony M. Hasek, Jr., is associated with the firm of Gebhardt and Gebhardt, with offices in Clinton, N. J.; Edward J. Laska, with offices at 66 Church Street, Keansburg, N. J.; Harold W. Philhower, with offices in Irvington, N. J.; Harold E. Smith is associated with the firm of Peter, Schroeder and Smith, with offices at 210 Main Street, Hackensack, N. J.; Adele J. Thomas, with offices in Closter, N. J.; Joseph Aloysius Ward, with offices at 443 Broad Street, Newark; Daniel S. Weinkind is associated with the firm of Song, Duncan and Bailey, with offices in the National Newark and Essex Bank Building in Newark; Franklin J. Muntweiler, assistant dean of New Jersey Law School, instructor in equity, real estate, and real property, chairman of the executive committee of the New Jersey Law School Alumni Association; Ernest D. North 2nd, recipient of the New Jersey Law School Teaching Fellowship, 1928, is present instructor of personal property and torts at New Jersey Law School and associated with a New York law firm; George McElroy, president of his class, with offices at 126 Broad Street, Elizabeth, N. J.

CLASS OF 1929
The largest class ever to graduate from New Jersey Law School has an array of outstanding members: John Arnold Bolger, practicing law in Newark, with offices at 9 Clinton Street; Edward Curtan, Jr., member of the Seal and Snell Law Firm, with the firm of Levy, Fenster and McCloskey, with offices at 45 Brantford Place, Newark; Benjamin B. H. Greenwood, member of Seal and Snell, successfully passed the October, 1930, bar examination; Robert Leonard Howard, former president of the Student Council, has been running a summer camp for boys in Maine; John Marshall Pillsbury is associated with the firm of Snyder and Roberts of Atlantic Highlands, N. J.; George Addisson Hobar, associated with the firm of Hobart and Minard, Newark, of which his father is the senior partner; Clavin S. Koth, practicing law with his father in Arlington, N. J.; Aaron N. Premelaar, former Student Council representative and chairman of the publications committee, is at present selling insurance; Don Phillips Taylor, former editor-in-chief of the Barregister, member of Seal and Scroll, associated with the firm of Burnett, Murray and Trelease of Newark, successfully passed the October, 1930, bar examinations; Samuel D. Boyza is practicing law with offices at 44 Braden Place, Newark; Edward Clifford Burke, practicing law with offices at 575 Broad Street, Elizabeth, N. J.; Ruell Edgar Daniels, former Student Council member, is teaching school in Passaic, N. J.; Grant V. Suttenberry is a member of the firm of Coffin and Suttenberry, whose offices are in the Industrial Building, Newark; Edwin L. Gidley, attorney for the Hoffman Beverage Corporation, of Irvington, N. J.; Frederick H. Gansler is practicing law with offices at 60 Park Place, Newark; Herman Erb Hillenhek, associated with the firm of Lum, Tuthill and Coyer, at 605 Broad Street, Newark; Harry B. Hyde, attorney for the Foreclosure Section of the Prudential Insurance Company, of Newark; Lloyd J. Kelley, former treasurer of the class is associated with Harry Heber, in the Trenton Trust Building in Trenton, N. J.; Wilson J. McDonald, associated with the Legal Department of the Prudential Insurance Company, as Newark; Robert W. Moncier, who successfully passed the October, 1930, bar examination is associated with Jacob L. Newman, with offices in the National State Bank Building, Newark; James L. Moran has offices at 286 North Broad Street, Elizabeth, N. J.; Leona Lillian Piskorski is associated with the firm of Perkins and Darvin, with offices in the Trust Company of New Jersey Building, Jersey City; Oswald H. Roth, Jr., associated with Frederic W. Wiederaequer, with offices at 1027 Broad Street, Newark; Frederick H. Samuel, practicing law at 786 Broad Street, Newark; Dr. Roi S. Thompson, former circulation manager of THE LEGACY, is associated with Hicks and Kulthau, Citizens National Bank Building, New Brunswick, N. J.; David Ashen, former member of THE LEGACY Board, is associated with Luce and Kipp, 10 Ames Avenue, Rutherford, N. J.; John Holtzclaw Fetherston, associated with a bank in New York; Jacob M. Spangler, associated with Groves and Depew, 207 Broad Street, Elizabeth; N. J.; Benjamin Columbus Van Tine, member of Seal and Scroll, associated with the offices of the Attorney General of New Jersey.

CLASS OF 1930

William H. Jobes, associated with Alexander T. Schenck, at 763 Broad Street, Newark; Charles B. Mason, member of Seal and Scroll and former president of Student Council, is associated with Fleming and Handford, Kenney Building, Newark; Oswald George Nelson, prominent as an orchestra director and countertenor, is conducting the orchestra at the Ritz Towers, New York City; Stanley Sliter Dickerson, associated with George Burton, at South River, N. J.; successfully passed the 1930 bar examinations: Gervase Albert Froelitch, associated with Joseph Coolen, at 763 Broad Street, Newark, has successfully passed the 1930 bar examination; William P. Miller, associated with the Legal Department of the Prudential Insurance Company of America, at Newark; Arthur San Filippo, associated with Hobart and Minard, Newark; Harry P. Becker, associated with the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company; Peter Cooper, associated with Gilbert Van Nest, an attorney at Spring Lake, N. J.; Walter J. Lloyd Davis, associated with Harley, Cox and Walburg, of Newark: Henry Heath Patterson, associated with Patterson, Rhome and Morgan, at the Land and Mortgage Building, Asbury Park, N. J.
Evening Questionnaire

If you were to start all over again would you go to law school? Yes—24. No—2.
Do you intend to practice law? Yes—25. No—1.
What was the most interesting course taught in law school? Real Property.
What was the least interesting? Trusts.
Who is your favorite professor? Tie—Sorg and Caffrey.
Who is the most capable man on the U. S. Supreme Court? Holmes.
Who is the most capable man on the N. D. Court of Appeals? Gummere.
Who is the most popular student? O’Brien.
Which student’s opinion of a legal question do you respect the most? Mann.
Who will be the first judge? O’Brien.
Most successful financially? Friedman.
Who will be the most brilliant lawyer? Deutsche.
Best politician? O’Brien.
Is true-false a fairer test of the student’s knowledge than an essay type exam?
Yes—15. No—11.
Were your three years in law school wasted? No.
What subjects should be added to the curriculum? Statutes, Bankruptcy.
What subjects should be dropped from the curriculum? Trusts, Common Law Pleading.
Most studious? Tie—Mann and Carlinson.
Best speaker? Deutsche.
Most dignified? Schram.
If you were to start all over again, would you do more studying than you did?
Yes.
Considering the surplus of lawyers, do you think you could earn a living as a lawyer? Yes.
Class comedian? O’Brien.
Junior Morning Class

CONFIDENCE, hope, and courage, mingled with apprehension and bewilderment! These were the sensations that about one hundred and fifty students experienced late in September, 1929, when they first entered New Jersey Law School. They felt armed; better equipped to study law than the classes that came before them. Didn't they have certificates signifying they had satisfactorily completed the two year's course of college work necessary for entrance to the law school? One week and confidence made an abrupt, though quiet exit. Apprehension and bewilderment strutted around in flying colors.

Shortly afterward they were informed they were to elect class officers. After a few days of good-natured campaigning, they brought forward as their leaders William P. Mason, president; Melvin D. Bloomfield, vice-president; Alfred Tellone, treasurer; Natalie J. Lifshus, secretary; Samuel E. Goldner, Student Council representative.

Not long after the election took place the class debating team was chosen. The members of this team showed their ability when they were judged victors in the debate between the Freshman and Junior Morning Divisions. The Freshman team was composed of Hyman Rosenberg, Hyman Schwartz, Mario Faero and Irving Harris, alternate.

A dinner dance was held at the Globe Restaurant and was greatly enjoyed by everyone. The committee in charge of this affair consisted of Samuel E. Goldner as chairman, Edgar M. Kridel, Herman W. Kapp, Gerald Capodanno, Lilian Forman and Donald Hobart.

For the second year Edgar Kridel, Joseph Pickett, Irving Harris, Natalie Lifshus and Sherwood Mundy were elected by the remaining eighty students to represent them as class officers.

Our debating team this year comprised Joseph Pickett, Al Baime and Aaron Schomer. These boys lost by a narrow margin to their worthy opponents, the Freshman Morning debates.

This year we abandoned the idea of a class function. Instead we supported the Student Council Dance, which was held April 11th in the Hotel Suburban, East Orange. This affair met with great success and surpassed the expectation of everyone.

Two years gone, and one more to go! What appeared far away and almost beyond reach, is now close at hand. The Seniors of next year will come back to their studies with their original enthusiasm and a new earnestness which experience and application has fostered in them.
Roll Call

Albert, Max
Appeil, Harry D.
Baime, Albert Harris
Baldwin, Joseph Ahner
Barser, Edward Orville
Burger, Sidney
Campbell, Bernard
Capodanno, Gerard Thomas
Calsillo, Ovid J.
Colvin, Paul
Danna, Louise
Di Como, Charles Salvatore
Drumm, Thomas E.
Eisenberg, Abraham
Eisenstein, Meyer Louis
Faber, A. Ahner
Feltman, Abraham
Fisher, Nat J.
Ford, Grace Judge
Ford, Robert James
Peela, Margaret
Friedman, Peter
George, Edward M.
Golden, Herman
Goldstein, Harry Jacob
Gollender, Henry George
Gorenstein, Jacob Lee
Harris, R. Irving
Headley, Frank A.
Heller, William
Hobart, Don Oeborn
Howell, Robert George
Hrshar, John Edward
Iantinola, Salvatore E.
Jackson, William McKinley
Jacoby, Milton P.
Johnson, Edward
Kapp, Herman William
Klauser, Sam
Klein, Louis
Kowalski, Boleslans Stanley
Kridel, Edgar M.
Levin, Reuben M.
Lifshus, Edith Joyce
Lifshus, Natalie Jane
Loeb, Albert S.
Martino, Alfred Caprio
Meli, John
Meola, Joseph
Miller, Fred
Mintz, Joseph C.
Moros, Alfred
Mufrak, Ambrose J.
Mundy, Sherwood H.
Pickett, Joseph
Pinto, Pasquale
Presley, Eldon
Raffaello, Samuel
Reinick, James
Riheimer, Samuel
Rose, Jr., William W.
Rose, Jr., James Joseph
Rothe, Archie
Rudorfer, Harry
San Giacomo, John Daniel
Scherenfeldsky, Henry
Schnitzer, Nathan R.
Schomer, Aaron Z.
Schrezenkel, George
Schulman, Louis Leon
Schwartz, J. Harry
Sefidman, Jack
Shulman, Raymond
Soriano, Eusteniano A.
Taranola, Italo
Tellone, Alfred
Ternow, Abraham M.
Tortorello, Victor Domenick
Traub, Morris A.
Watson, Adele
Wehler, Joseph M.
Weiner, Louis
Yankowitz, Irving
Young, Russell Kennedy

JUNIOR AFTERNOON CLASS
Junior Afternoon Class

From the four corners of the State they came, the members of the Afternoon Class of '32. Many of us were not strangers to each other, having undergone the trials, tribulations and pleasures of Pre-Legal School together. Others represented various colleges and universities throughout the country.

This group came together on October 1, 1929, in the old New Jersey Law School Building, at 33 East Park Street. Up to the third floor they groped their way and right into the study of law they plunged, some doing cases, others asserting they would "tomorrow." (And tomorrow never comes, you know.)

At the helm for our Freshman year were: Maurice A. Rubinstein, president; Eugene Brennan, vice-president; Abe A. Eichler, treasurer; Natalie C. Baron, secretary; and Arthur Donigan as Student Council representative.

In the line of outside activities, the male members of the class held a smoker. It was such a huge success that the class is through with smokers for the rest of their law school life. Various members of the class joined "frats," sororities and school clubs, thus getting right into the swing of the "social phase" of our life here. Several students represented the class on the debating team.

Our first year ended, successfully for some, uselessly for others. Nevertheless, after a long summer vacation many of us greeted each other again, this time as Juniors, and in the new Jersey Law School Building at 40 Rector Street.

Quickly we resumed the regular regime: acclimating ourselves to such things as demurrers, equitable estoppel, dower in partnership property, and other such "Fascinating" matters.

To lead us in our Junior year the officers elected were: John E. Thiele, president; Leo J. Berg, vice-president; Natalie C. Baron, secretary; Abe A. Eichler, treasurer; and Harold Makowsky, Student Council representative.

A steaks dinner for members of the class took place in March and made for a more fraternal understanding among members of the class.

Before our very eyes, the year drew by. Very casually (or perhaps we should say casually-sly) mid-year examinations passed and finals came on.

Our fate for the rest of the time we remain in law school we leave in the hands of the all-powerful, the "prof." Meanwhile, we live in hopes.
Roll Call

Amada, Charles
Appet, Irvin A.
Asar, William
Baker, Clinton H.
Baron, Natalie C.
Baum, Abe
Berg, Leo J.
Bianco, Joseph G.
Britton, Richard
Cacera, Anthony L.
Cohen, Leslie Harold
Cohen, Saul
Cona, Marie E.
Crawley, John Joseph
Cummins, Eugene Francis
Donigian, Arthur
Dreskin, Leon
Eichtler, Abe Albert
Epstein, Sigmund
Faltings, Robert T.
Farnetti, Romeo
Frankel, Jacob
Fried, Harold
Fuerth, Donald S.
Gladstone, Herbert Max
Goldner, Sam E.
Green, Louis H.
Harmelin, David R.
Heller, Milton E.
Hermann, Albert
Herships, Sol
Hewitt, Walter R.
Hixon, Kenneth Baylor
Kirsch, Sanford M. D.
Klein, Louis Eleazer
Kraemer, Louis
Lang, Jr., Harry W.
La Pietra, Wallace William
Lawson, Eldon
Levine, Joseph
Licks, Robert Louis
Lieb, Jerome S.
Makowsky, Harold
McCann, James B.
McGovern, William J.
Mientz, Hymen B.
Rosenberg, Abraham
Rosenfeld, Leslie Elitha
Roth, Burnett Staunton
Rubinstein, Maurice A.
Rudenstein, H. Seymour
Safrastein, Amanda
Saharjian, Jr., John
Samuelson, Myron Izaak
Sandels, Lester
Schleinger, Marvin
Schwitzer, Jerome David
Sodowich, Isadore S.
Spiegel, Julius
Sprouts, Arthur Joseph
Steenburgh, Eugene M.
Stewart, Raymond James
Tedesco, Charles Breidenbach
Tergis, John P.
Thiele, John Edgar
Weidnachts, Frank A.
White, David Irvine
Zapnikov, Maurice
Zuckerman, Philip
Junior Evening Class

Twas on a balmy summer's evening in the latter part of September, 1929, that a motley crew of law-minded students wended their way to the Freshman Lecture Room. Truly, a humble beginning for the famous Evening Division of '22.

With preliminaries behind us and our life study before us, we immediately dug into our work with the zeal characteristic of Trojans. Extra-curricular activities, however, were not to be forgotten. Our first class meeting, held under the auspices of the Student Council, was the occasion of nomination for class officers. After a spirited election the results were: President, Richard Stites; vice-president, Nathan Kessel; secretary, Pensiero Calcia; treasurer, Charles Breslow; and Student Council representative, Joseph Melillo.

The class debating team for our first year consisted of Messrs. Gross, Slavin, Melillo and Wilkins. Our forensic activities, however, were cut short by defeat at the hands of the champion Junior evening team.

Next in order came the class dinner, an occasion for the students to drop their conventionalities and enter into a co-operative spirit of good fellowship. We were beginning to acquire a class-consciousness.

Recognition of the class's ability was not lacking, and out of the three prizes awarded to Froshmen, the evening students won two and were tied for the third.

In the fall of 1930 we returned, reduced in number but strengthened in spirit. President-elect Thomas Schwab having left us, a new selection was necessary. Joseph Melillo was the successful candidate for the vacancy, and with the assistance of Vice-President Benjamin Gross, Secretary Pensiero Calcia, Treasurer Charles Breslow and Student Council Representative Frank O'Donoghue, we were assured a successful year.

Our Junior debating team consisted of Messrs. Gross, Kohn, Wilkins and Melillo. But the fates were against us, and this year likewise proved fatal to our debaters.

The Class Social came as a quick relief from the mid-term ordeal; burlesque dinner, and unostentatious hilarity occupied a full Friday evening.

In order to widen our scope of extra-curricular activity, we organized a class basketball team and traveled far and wide to meet all comers. We met among others, Dana College and the Junior Afternoon team, the latter being victims of the onslaught of our muscle-bound athletes.

And so another year has passed, examinations have come and gone, and how we emerge serious, sedate Seniors.
Roll Call

Bellino, Anthony Paul
Berkowicz, Charles J.
Bianchi, Vincent Etor
Bianco, Anthony Paul
Biener, J. William
Bradley, Stanley W.
Brenlow, Charles
Buys, Leonard Bernard
Byrne, William
Calabrese, Ben F.
Caleia, Penelope
Carp, George Joseph
Clark, Gordon Wallace
Clyne, Sidney J.
Cookley, Frank Craddock
Conklin, Walter H.
Drogin, Jack
Dunning, T. William
Erich, Leo Werner
Ferrullia, Sallie Ernest
Ferman, Lillian
Fox, Emanuel
Gelpi, Jose Rafael
Goff, Barnett
Goldblatt, Jacob
Goldfinger, Milton
Goldman, Bessie
Goldstein, Jacob
Gorczyca, Louis Frank
Green, David
Gros, Benjamin
Guerrik, Benjamin Carl
Harris, Samuel
Harrison, Clifton
Hayes, Howard William
Herbert, Edward
Huber, William
Jaffe, Harry L.
Jannof, George Joseph
Jansen, Joseph A.
Ken, Arnold Joseph
Kessel, Nathan
Knoller, Robert Irving
Kohn, Leslie S.
Kopper, Edward
Kranzler, Harold
Kunin, Samuel Elihu
Leventhal, Samuel
Levy, David
Lott, Frank G.
Mason, William Pepperell
Mayer, Phil O.
McManus, Earl Chatham
Melillo, Joseph
Miller, Louis
Monaghan, Charles J.
Monico, Joseph Carl
Moran, John Vincent
Najarian, Milton
Newmark, Benjamin
O'Donoghue, Frank Joseph
Pappalardo, William Vito
Pfeifer, Samuel C.
Pelliti, Basil Henry
Rich, Malcolm N.
Sacks, Milton P.
Santangelo, Dominic
Schaber, Albert E.
Schreiber, Sam
Schwartz, Abe S.
Schwartzman, Charles
Shaw, Robert
Slavik, William E. B.
Smith, Herbert Charles
Steinberg, Harry
Stein, Richard M.
Swiller, Lewis H.
Wentworth, Jr., Elihu Francis
Wilken, David
Wofford, Jr., George Torrey
Yam, Irving

FRESHMEN
Freshman Morning Class

On the morning of September 29, 1930, one hundred and thirteen students, with hopes surging high, entered the freshman class at the new law school building. Of this number, twenty-six came from colleges, as near as Rutgers and as far away as Iowa. A greater part of this number had received their degrees and had not only attained a splendid record in their academic work, but also played a leading part in contributing to the prestige of their respective schools. Not to be forgotten are the eighty odd students who completed the two years course at the Pre-Legal School, and by the noteworthy record they established there promise to play a leading part in maintaining the development of our school.

Hardly had the class gotten over the effects of the legal aptitude and intelligence tests, as well as their initiation into the realm of law, when the class organization took place, under the ever-guiding hand of the Student Council. The elections were hotly contested, but the final results brought with them none other than Raymond Flanagan as class leader. Other class officers selected were: Harry Boorstein, Frank Cavico, Elizabeth Epstein and Martin Loftus.

Time passed rapidly, and as the threat of mid-year exams approached hurried preparations were made for an inter-class debate. In their first debate the Class defeated the Juniors by a vote of 2 to 1. Being the victors, the team met the Senior team in February and was defeated by the latter. The Class is proud of the ability displayed by the men representing the Class, under the leadership of Raymond Flanagan, and gives its vote of thanks to Sidney Herman Cohen, David Rapport and Frank Cavico.

The Class decided to forego a social affair of its own, as it pledged its utmost and whole-hearted support to the Student Council Prom.

Roll Call

Abrahamson, Alexander Abraham
Aldano, Mary
Baderman, Gerard Michael
Bennett, Jr., James Stanislaus
Bernebrock, Louis Melville
Bereson, Sam
Berilly, Jack Jerome
Bernstein, Milton
Binder, Morris
Bingham, Thomas Allen
Blatt, Maurice Joseph
Bonanno, Lawrence Frank
Boorstein, Harry
Borghei, Vera
Boshm, Julia
Brown, Robert R.
Burns, Lawrence Eugene
Burroughs, Reginald Case
Burnet, Ethel Rose
Bush, Albert W.
ROLL CALL (Continued)

Cavico, Frank Joseph
Chamberlin, Gilbert Doye
Chenoweth, Harry William
Chesnoff, Lewis J.
Christie, Albert Edward
Ciatala, Walter Stanley
Cohen, Sidney Herman
Coven, Milton
Daunt, Rose Marie
Dr. Cotiss, Anna
Di Leo, Gregory Stephen
Dimiero, Alfred
Domb, Harold Barnett
Engel, Robert John
Epstein, Elizabeth Lillian Fader, Irving
Fallows, Harry Worthington
Feather, Alvin Reeves
Feinberg, Harold
Plagen, Raymond Herrick
Pondo, Dominick
Grodzick, Richard
Geller, Abraham
Gold, Maurice Emanuel
Goldberg, Herman Norman
Goldberger, William
Goldstein, Israel David
Gralla, Bertha
Guarnino, Jerry Joseph
Gus, Louis Szymo
Haberman, Joseph George
Hartman, Harvey Garrison
Howard, Charles
Joyce, Harry Anthony Francis
Kanowith, Ruth
Katz, Harry
Kraivitz, Tobias Paul
Lax, William
Lazer, Harry Milton
Lofus, Martin Joseph
Masur, Pasquale Nicholas
Massary, Reuben W.
Matthews, Ralph John
Meltz, Albert Daniel
Miller, Earl Thomas
Montef, Martha Elaine
Morrill, Ida Ruth

Most, Nathaniel
Nodskiewicz, Sidney Eastace
Palmistano, Cosmo
Pappo, Peter Samuel
Peller, Bernard Oscar
Perlmutter, Hilda Lillian
Post, Roy Elmer
Pukin, Abe
Rappaport, David Albert
Reading, Albert Morris
Reid, Jr., Charles Adams
Reiff, Beatrice
Roso, Wilfred
Rosen, Morris
Rosenfelt, Benjamin
Rosenhaft, Louis
Rubin, Harry Herbert
Saccone, John Michael
Santoro, Edward Joseph
Savko, Michael Joseph
Scarpa, Louis Ralph
Schwartz, Hyman Harry
Sege, Sam
Seifer, Abe William
Sinder, Edward Joseph
Slonim, Clarice Beatrice
Slonim, Lucille Frances
Stazler, Nelson Frank
Steier, Isadora
Stein, Joseph David
Sterner, Ellsworth J.
Stone, Martha
Suss, Samuel S.
Taylor, John William
Thorn, Jr., Charles Norman
Unterman, Theodor Herzel
Urbanik, Eugene Theodore
Verrilli, Daniel Matteo
Wallisch, John
Wallisch, Jr., Louis
Water, Edith Victoria
Young, Jr., William Hoyt
Zager, Louis
Zirkel, Julius
Zimmerman, Bertha
Zirinsky, Frank

FRESHMAN AFTERNOON CLASS
Freshman Afternoon Class

THE Freshman Afternoon Class convened for the first time in the early autumn. In this heterogeneous grouping, besides those coming from the pre-legal branch of Dana College, we have some from the north, represented by Colgate, to the sunny south, which is represented by the University of Alabama, and many others.

Shortly thereafter, with the help and direction of Earl Ogden Bennett, we were able to form, from a chaotic mass, a well-organized group. The officers chosen were: President, August E. La Corte; vice-president, Irving I. Moskowitz; treasurer, Albert Neiss; and secretary, Rose Spalletta. As representative to the Student Council, George C. O'Brien was selected.

This class has distinguished itself in the forensic field, where it was represented by a team composed of August La Corte, David Rabinowitz, and John Murphy. These "Three Musketeers" of the forum have repeatedly annihilated their opponents in their duel of words. The result of their ingenuity was that they won the interclass debating championship.

So that now at the close of our first year in the pursuit of the knowledge of law—once crowded with work and play, joy and satisfaction, it seems fitting to say:

"Forsan et haec olim meminisse iuvabit."

Roll Call

Alper, Harold
Alper, Nathaniel
Arenz, Robert Hamilton
Berman, Joseph Jerome
Braend, Julius Henry
Brass, Leonard A.
Braunstein, Meyer
Castellano, Nicholas L.
Chasnow, Herman
Cooper, Sam
D'Anna, Paul Edward
Del Tufo, Lambert Anthony
Dubowski, Joseph

Faerberg, Sam Richard
Farber, Irving Saul
Ferlanti, William Richard
Finkel, Joseph
Finkelstein, Emanuel
Franklin, Hubert James
Friendman, Abraham Leon
Fugazzolo, Caesar C.
Gelber, Louis Jack
Goldstein, William Isadore
Gordon, Bernard Maurice
Grecoen, Walter Scott
Grodzinski, Walter
ROLL CALL (Continued)

Hein, Frank William
Hershkowitz, Margaret Beverly Hochberg, David Robert
Kast, Albert Lander
LaCorte, August Emil
Lavigne, Leon Jude
Leary, Francis Patrick
Lieberman, Sam
Lipitz, Jack
Manganaro, Philip
Margolis, George
Melillo, Peter
Memoli, Frank Paul
Miskowitz, Irving Isadore
Murphy, John Daniel
Najarian, Arax Stephen
Narol, Aaron
Neiss, Albert Milton
O’Brien, George Cullen
Oransky, Emanuel
Plager, Alfred
Pollacheck, Julius Richard Rabinowitz, David
Rollefort, Louis P
Rosenberg, Robert Elias
Sach, Leon
Sauer, Alfred Joseph
Saxe, Herbert Walter
Scheick, Emanuel Grant
Spalletta, Rose
Spiegel, Louis
Spiro, Samuel Leonard
Sprout, Warren Austin
Toppe, Max
Weiss, Robert
Wolf, Jack
Yanowsky, William Harold
Freshman Evening Class

It is undoubtedly true that the thoughtful undergraduate student gives serious thought when he contemplates the study of law. It is not long before he realizes that unless he sincerely and wholeheartedly devotes himself to his studies, he is a doomed failure. He can only get as much out of the study of law as he puts into it of himself, his time and energy.

The usual undergraduate unconsciously, of study and care must be dispensed with, with as much celerity as possible.

Such sudden transformation requires immediate, adequate adaptation to the new environment, and a keen sense of responsibility to those who will in the future depend upon the present student of law.

How well does the Freshman Evening Class conform to these requirements? The class is composed primarily of those who fail in the day that they may study at night. Of necessity their mode of life is systematic to the extent that every minute of their wakeful hours has its particular significance and must be utilized for a certain purpose.

In this, their systematic mode of living, coupled with an intense desire for success—which gives them the excess energy they require—lies the secret of all evening students the world over.

In the short history of its existence, the Freshman Evening Class has shown gratifying consequences of its practical education obtained from actual contact with the world at large.

Thus, though the student's little know each other, they choose their class officers with an enviable sense of intelligent discrimination.

Though pressed for time, their enthusiasm for debating appeared to be great (and this not for self-aggrandizement but to better learn to be of service to others) that it required a prolonged elimination process to determine the composition of the class-team. Here, too, the class portrayed a distinct characteristic of laudable sincerity. It was willing to lose its battles, if it could not win them by argumentation unhampered by obscurity.

The class has also made a sincere attempt (and still continues) to contribute to the law school magazine, the Barrister, and thus made it an integral part of its law school family.

The results of the past mid-year examinations also show that the class consists of a capable student-body.

In the absence of extraneous circumstances, the Freshman Evening Class will surely make the law school proud of its membership.

Roll Call

Alexander, Sidney George
Auster, Irving
Austino, Ralph J.
Bach, Engelbert Kurt
Band, William F. X.
Bandino, James Vincent
Barnett, Morris M.
Bartolomew, William J.
Berman, Abraham Paul
Bernstein, Harry Ezekiel
Bigrlow, Arthur Burnham
Bizzaro, Ferdinand Joseph
Blatt, Meyer
Boigas, Herman Benton
Bostwick, Burdette Edward
Boynton, Emory Percy
ROLL CALL (Continued)

Braxier, Isadore
Brighti, Guido John
Brooks, Stanley George
Buday, Joseph Michael
Cantin, Manuel
Cerfot, Louis
Cerlink, Stephen
Clapp, Albert Victor
Comerford, Eugene Joseph
Connor, John Joseph
Conway, Sydney Albert
Cooperman, Bernard
Cunnin, Raymond Leo
Dakin, Edgar Warren
Dobbelaar, William Louis
Driossi, Theodore A.
Dwyer, Herbert James
Esposti, Anthony V.
Fello, Mario
Felter, John Knox
Ferguson, John
Fliehr, Elmer J.
Gillespie, Bernard Francis
Ginsao, Samuel H.
Gold, Jacob Joseph
Goldstein, Max
Gottlieber, Harold Samuel
Haas, Milton Angelo
Halpern, Abraham B.
Heffron, Thomas David
Heilman, William Owens
Helburn, Leeoy John
Herman, Carl Jacob
Herz, Jack David
Horton, Charles Paul
Iraco, Rose
Jacobson, Nathan
Jones, Harry Franklyn
Kalt, Harry Carl
Kamen, Joseph Paul
Kantrowitz, Morris
Karas, Aram Arthur
Kaup, Louis
Keegan, Wilbur Vincent
Kibrimbam, Gabriel
Kolba, Harry
Kneidel, Francis Anthony
Levine, J. Hymen
Lewis, Saul
Lieberman, Mortimer
Litwack, Julius Phillip
Litzky, Leo
Logan, George
Lublang, Edward
McNamara, Edward Patrick Ryan
McWilson, Logan Warren
Meahan, Thomas Aloysius
Meglows, William M.
Mendelson, Max
Mongillo, Stephen Mario
Morali, William Meredith
Mudrick, Emil Edward
O'Brien, Joseph V.
Orks, Robert Eugene
Polizotto, Anthony
Pomerantz, George
Reichert, Norman Edgar
Ren, James C.
Robins, Robert Russ
Rose, Ine Morris
Rubin, Morris
Saibone, Mordecai
Schackner, David Bernard
Scher, Meyer
Schwarz, Harry G.
Shaw, Franklyn Remon
Shogard, Howard John
Simons, Robert Glendenning
Slon, Abraham H.
Smith, Thomas Joseph
Sokolow, Carl
Stern, David Abraham
Strzelecki, Edward Aloysius
Sullivan, James Edwin
Terkowitz, Jack
Tobin, Ida
Trifari, Edmund
Ulzney, Frank Stephen
Valentine, Milton Daniel
Warrack, Abraham
Weinstein, Morris
Whitacre, Nina E.
Wizman, Jacob Arthur
Worner, Vincent Charles
Zuckerman, David

NEW JERSEY
ATTORNEYS GENERAL